Annual Meeting to feature Keynote Address on Innovation and Business Awards Presentation

Allstate Senior VP of Innovation and Development to Headline Dinner

Howard Hayes, Senior VP Allstate Insurance Co.

At this year's annual meeting, Allstate's top innovation executive will address the challenges that businesses of all sizes face in a rapidly changing world, and the need to grow and adapt to remain competitive and relevant. As part of his presentation, he will point out that innovation is a critical component to establishing and growing a business.

Allstate Senior Vice President, Product/Service Innovation and Development, Howard Hayes will share that while many may worry that innovation requires large financial resources, it is possible to test new ideas and bring them to fruition without "breaking the bank."

Hayes will bring his considerable first-hand experience and research insights from industry successes and failures, as well as tried and true ways of putting the "innovation odds" in your favor. Using examples from both iconic and emerging brands such as Google and Navteq, he will showcase how

The Chamber is pleased to announce the three winners of the twelfth annual Business Awards, which recognize excellence in the Northbrook business community. The award winners, each meeting its own criteria, will be recognized at the Chamber's annual meeting and dinner on February 26th.

Hilton Chicago Northbrook, Corporate Citizen of the Year

The Corporate Citizen of the Year is recognized for promoting a spirit of giving and community involvement.

While being part of one of the most nationally recognized names in the hotel industry, the Hilton Chicago Northbrook is also the story of a family owned and operated business that cares about its neighbors, quietly giving back to the local community and helping individuals who are rarely in the spotlight.

The Allgauer family's involvement in the hospitality industry in Northbrook dates back several generations. General Manager Holly Allgauer-Cir's grandfather founded Allgauers, the original building on the property, which served as a restaurant and banquet facility from 1974 - 1984. Her father Frank Allgauer built a single hotel tower in 1984, establishing Allgauers Hotel, then a second tower in 1988, which later transitioned to the Hilton flag.

But despite its growth and brand name, the hotel has always had a special place in its heart and time for those who are often the most vulnerable and least recognized in society-- youth of all ages and in particular children with special needs.

The hotel also donates brunches and overnight stays to churches and synagogues for their fundraisers, as well as other organizations that support youth such as adoption agencies and service groups. The hotel estimates the value of its nearly 150 annual donations to community causes to be around $30,000.

But the value of some of the donations has no price tag. "We support virtually any local organization that offers programs

A Message from the Chamber President

One of my favorite events of the year is our Annual Meeting and Dinner -- the event truly represents what the Chamber is all about, bringing people together and honoring the best in our community. We are very fortunate to have Howard Hayes as our keynote speaker sharing his thoughts on a topic that we can all relate to -- the need to stay relevant and innovative. But the evening has also has a very celebratory tone, as it spotlights three very deserving leaders with our annual business awards.

Two of this year's award winners are family owned businesses who have made an indelible mark on Northbrook. My deepest admiration goes to Jill Carlisle, whose store la de da! has enjoyed so much success in a difficult retail environment. Small, independent stores like hers are the bright spot in our downtown. Many of us don't fully realize the risk involved with opening a retail store and all that goes on behind the scenes -- the financial investment, the cost of space, staffing, not to mention the challenge of keeping up with trends. So, kudos to Jill for her perseverance and creativity in forging her own path to success.

Similarly, the Hilton is also a story of a family's legacy and livelihood that is tied to business ownership. For many, the name Allgauers and the Hilton have been regarded as one and the same. Holly, Kellie and Frank Allgauer are the family behind a community landmark. The Allgauer family in turn cares about its neighbors, and has been generous in ways that are very personal. We honor all that they have meant and the difference they have made.

And I am personally grateful to photographer Brad Baskin for helping us to record Chamber memories and portraying the vitality of the organization through photographs. Traditionally, our Volunteer award winners have had structured roles at the Chamber, or had a specific assignment tied to their volunteerism. But equally important are the skills that volunteers bring to the organization, and Brad has been extremely generous sharing his.

I hope you will join me to help celebrate these award winners at the Annual Meeting. If you are already planning to attend, for a very small additional investment, I encourage you to consider being a sponsor to demonstrate your support for the work of the Chamber.

businesses of all sizes have identified and "de-risked" innovative opportunities in their pursuit to capture new value.

Hayes drives the creation of new products and services across Allstate. In his role, Hayes and his team not only evaluate and develop products and services but work closely with Allstate business units to coordinate and support their innovation efforts.

Most recently, Hayes developed a strategy for Allstate to expand its risk protection portfolio resulting in the $1.4 billion acquisition of SquareTrade. He also identified new opportunities for Allstate to optimize the transportation industry's transition to autonomous vehicles that includes a recently announced joint research program with Stanford University related to artificial intelligence and autonomous vehicle systems. He was a key leader in the creation of the Allstate Innovation Hub at Chicago's Merchandise Mart, which is the centerpiece of the company's innovation activities, including Allstate's newly-formed technology and data analytics company, Arity. Previously, as Senior VP at NAVTEQ, a pioneer in digital mapping, Hayes helped create the world's first satellite-delivered, real-time traffic service, which was launched in 2004 by Honda. From there he built the business to nearly $100 million in annual revenue. After establishing NAVTEQ's traffic business in North America, Hayes led its global expansion, building NAVTEQ into the world's largest traffic coverage provider and subscriber base. Today the service is available in 34 countries and is used on more than 17 million navigation devices.

Hayes has an MBA from Harvard Business School and an undergraduate degree from Dartmouth College.

Headquartered in Northbrook, Allstate Corporation is the largest publicly held personal lines property and casualty insurer in America. It was founded in 1931 and became a publicly traded company in 1993.

or services for children or children with special needs," comments Holly. On any given day, amidst busy travelers checking into the hotel or executives listening to a presentation in one of its banquet rooms, children from the nearby Cove School, which serves youth with special needs, might be enjoying a pizza making session, or engaging in an activity to learn about the hotel industry.

Twice a year, the hotel opens its doors and gives Cove students a rare, firsthand opportunity to shadow the staff and learn more about the inner workings of the hotel, including explanations about all of the equipment, tours of the restaurant and the kitchen, and a chance to meet and ask questions of the hotel staff. In addition, the hotel also helps support the Cove School prom every year. "Our partnership with the Hilton Chicago Northbrook has made a significant difference in the lives of our students and stands out as a model within the community," comments Executive Director Dr. Sally Sover. "We are deeply grateful for all that they do."

Other students benefit as well. For students at Glenbrook North High School who are interested in the hospitality industry, the hotel offers a chance to attend a half day training session to learn more about the hotel and also gain valuable advice about resume writing and meal preparation. The hotel also sponsors and supports numerous other activities at the high school, including the business DECA club.

For the last ten years, the hotel has also donated breakfast and lunch for the prestigious Glenbrooks national debate team tournament every November, as well as help support the team's year-end party. The hotel has also sponsored a rib-off cooking event, with all proceeds dedicated to Youth Services of Glenview/Northbrook.

Because of the hotel's generous donation of its largest banquet area, the Chamber is able to hold its July Business Expo and After Hours, where 60 exhibitors can set up displays about their business. All hospitality at the event is provided by the hotel. Also, thanks to the hotel's generous donation of space, the Chamber is able to sponsor a Meal Packing event, making it possible for over 250 Chamber members from 102 businesses to pack 50,000 meals for needy families last year.

But generosity doesn't end there. Both Holly and her father Frank give of their time and serve on community boards. "Giving back to the community is a family commitment," comments Holly. "Going back to the days when we started out as just a restaurant, we have always believed strongly in helping our neighbors." Holly sits on the board for The Lexi Kazian Foundation Helping From Heaven, a charitable organization that is dedicated to improving the quality of life for families with children with special needs. Locally, she is currently Chair of Chicago's North Shore Convention and Visitors Bureau board, and also serves on the Chamber board.

Holly also points out that Hilton has a global platform "Bright Blue Futures" which works to educate and offer opportunity to all youth. "Fortunately, our local efforts actually dovetail perfectly with the national initiative," says Holly. "It's tied in to what we are already committed to doing."

The Hilton will donate its $500 honorarium accompanying the award to The Cove School.

la de da!Northbrook Business of the Year

The Northbrook Business of the Year is honored for excellent business practices.

Since it first opened its doors almost 13 years ago in downtown Northbrook, la de da! has delighted customers as a fun and stylish place to shop -- the kind of store where you can grab a quick gift, or lose yourself while browsing amongst all of the fashionable merchandise. But make no mistake about it, owner Jill Carlisle has put her serious business skills to work to create one of Northbrook's most successful specialty shops, developing an assortment of trendy and unique selections of home decor, baby gifts, and fashion accessories that appeal to women of all ages. Many of these items are exclusive to her store in Northbrook. Over the years, the store has survived and continued to grow through economic ups and downs. La de da now enjoys a loyal clientele that has come to know and appreciate its exceptional customer service.

Jill opened the store surrounded by her loving friends and family. Her decision was one of necessity as she needed to support herself and her young children after the death of her husband. In order to be near her children, Jill decided not to seek a "safe" corporate job. Instead she used the skills she knew best -- going all the way back to when she worked in retail as a high school student at Young In Heart in Hubbard Woods, to the skills she honed during her 14 year career at Marshall Field's. Her Field's experience, which involved overseas travel to Europe and Asia as a buyer for children's wear and later women's knitwear, taught her the importance of watching hard numbers and the bottom line-- understanding the cost of goods and pricing to develop private label merchandise and identifying the latest trends.

Over the years, the 900 square foot store has tripled its business and has grown to a staff of eight. She credits her site in downtown Northbrook for much of her success with neighboring retailers providing daily foot traffic and convenient parking. The shop also has a sizable stock room that allows her to continually fill her selling floor with new merchandise.

"You have to be committed to work hard in this business," she comments. "Part of the reason for my success is that I am present at the store almost every single day. Also what makes the store unique is that we can sell to females from ages 0 - 100!"

The store is deeply rooted in family. It was her father's influence and his signature expression that is the always present in the store, which bears his signature phrase, "la de da!" - his personal seal of approval.

Jill was driven by a desire to be available for her family while also providing a source of income. Her children were her daily motivation. "I believe the commitment to my kids in those early days is what drove my success," she comments.

Known as a place where customers can come into the store literally every day and find something new, Jill works hard to keep the inventory fresh and in style. It's not unusual for her to sell thousands of an especially hot item in her store, and she takes pride in her ability to identify items that are future key best sellers.

But Jill's commitment to personal service is her best known quality. She offers a concierge service that is literally door to door - customers can call with a request to purchase a gift, identify a price point, explain the occasion, and Jill and her staff will pick it out, wrap it, place it in the iconic black and white bag. "We have actually run the gift out to someone waiting in their car," she comments. "This is what separates us from the rest -- and it's something not available when shopping on the Internet. I like to call it the 'hit and run' because it's directly geared to helping our customers right at their moment of need!"

Having experienced so much success, Jill believes that it's important to give back. She has learned the impact she can have in her community by providing a way for her customers to make a difference. Several times a year she conducts charity events to support others. In 2017 she planned an event with her customers to raise $1500 for hurricane relief efforts. Last Mother's Day, la de da! delivered 40 baskets with products collected from her customers to a women's shelter in Evanston.

The store continues to motivate her and bring her happiness. "There's not a day that I get up that I am not happy to be here. It's such a joy."

Jill will donate the store's $500

honorarium that accompanies the award to Ann and Robert Lurie Children's Hospital.

Brad Baskin, Volunteer of the Year

The Volunteer of the Year is selected for consistently helping the Chamber achieve its goals

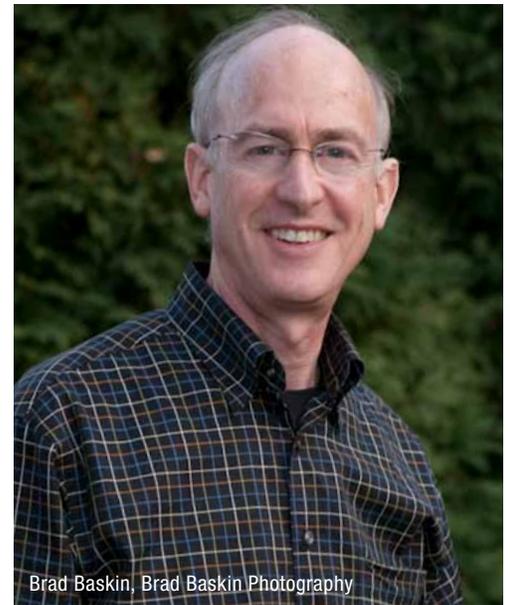

Over the years, hundreds of beautiful photographs taken by professional photographer Brad Baskin at Chamber events have helped communicate to the world not only images of the people in attendance, but the heart of the organization. Whether snapping a photo of a foursome at the Golf Outing, or capturing a candid moment at a Business After Hours event, Brad always brings a special gift of artistry and enthusiasm to his work.

Brad takes time away from his busy schedule as a full-time professional photographer to volunteer his time and talents taking pictures, which he offers exclusively for the Northbrook Chamber. Brad and his camera are a familiar sight at the Chamber's large events, including the Annual Meeting and Dinner, Auction and Taste, and legislative lunches, but he also willingly answers the call to take an occasional headshot or shoot pictures at smaller events, always stepping up whenever his schedule allows.

Brad's photos can be found front and center in all of the Chamber's publications, including the newsletter, the Community Guide, Shopping and Dining Guide, the Chamber's website and across the Chamber's social media channels, including its Facebook page. Numerous photos are also submitted to local media outlets, who commonly request Brad's photos for their coverage of Chamber events.

For his part, Brad appreciates the benefits of being on the other side of the camera at Chamber events. "The fun part about being a photographer is meeting people. And generally people at Chamber events are happy and enjoyable to photograph." Over the years he has come to know Chamber members and understand the importance of the events. "I always feel at home," he adds.

Brad first got interested in photography when he had his own darkroom at the age of 13. His earliest assignments involved shooting fashion ads for his family's clothing business. He soon learned to use his knack for putting people at ease and encourage improvisation. A graduate of the San Francisco Art Institute, he has 30 years experience as a professional photographer. He was introduced to the Chamber by Dan Gelfond in 2006 when both were shooting photos and videos at a Bar Mitzvah.

After coming to networking events and becoming more involved in the Chamber, he generously started volunteering his time. Recognizing that people gravitate towards photos in any publication, Brad notes "I always hope that my pictures will encourage people to read and learn more." Some of his favorite events to photograph are the Meal Packing event and Golf Outing, where people are clearly enjoying the experience.

Brad's photos have been widely published in ads for musical and theatrical productions in Chicago, Minneapolis and Las Vegas magazines. His images also appear in annual reports, including corporate photos for Fortune 500 executives, entrepreneurs, actors, healthcare professionals and law firms.

"I enjoy helping out the Chamber," he says, "It's fun taking pictures for what I consider to be the absolute best Chamber on the North Shore!"

Chamber Gearing up for 2018-2019 Community Guide

The Chamber is pleased to announce that it is again partnering with The Northbrook Tower to produce the 2018/2019 Community Resource Guide. This four-color guide will include comprehensive information about Northbrook. Featuring unique content for new, current and prospective residents, the guide is an in-depth source of information on local businesses, organizations, civic services, schools, community events and more. The guide, which includes an alphabetical and categorical listing of all Chamber members, has a shelf life of a full year. The publication will also include the summer Shopping and Dining Guide as an insert and as an added feature for residents and businesses. The Guide will be direct mailed to all homes and businesses in Northbrook, with an initial distribution of over 16,500. In addition, 4,000 Guides will be distributed throughout the year at Chamber events, by hotels, large corporations, real estate agents, civic organizations, the Library and numerous businesses in the community. Affordable advertising in the Guide is exclusive to Chamber members. For information consult the enclosed flyer or contact Gail Eisenberg at (847)331-3978.

Volunteers and Sponsors Needed for Golf Outing!

Plans are beginning to gear up for one of the Chamber's most popular events -- the annual Golf Outing, scheduled for Friday, June 8. Members can help support the event in several ways, either as a volunteer or as a sponsor.

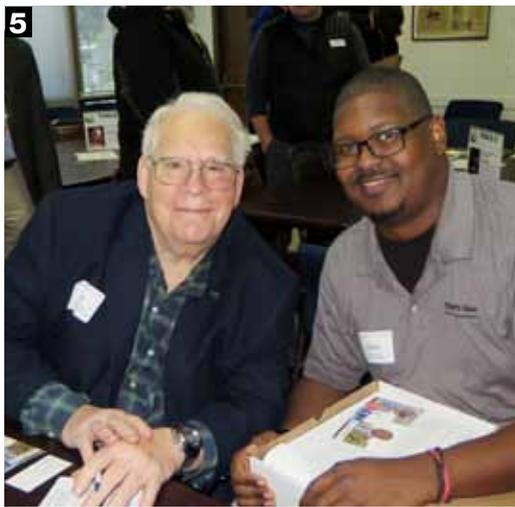

Volunteers meet informally at the Chamber office and have fun working together to put together the various elements of the Outing and promoting the event to their fellow members. The commitment includes -- three lunch time meetings starting in March, soliciting fellow members for sponsorships and participation, and assistance on the event day. Knowledge of golf is helpful but not necessary.

Another great way to support the outing is through a Golf Hole sponsorships which includes pre-event publicity and the opportunity to mix and mingle with the golfers at their hole. Each golf hole sponsorship includes a skills contest and $50 gift certificate. More information will be available in the March newsletter.

If interested in being on the Golf Volunteer Committee, or learning more about sponsorships, please contact Katie at (847)513-6003 or katie@northbrookchamber.org.
